

How your eligibility to sit a driving test determines your place in the queue...

Lisa

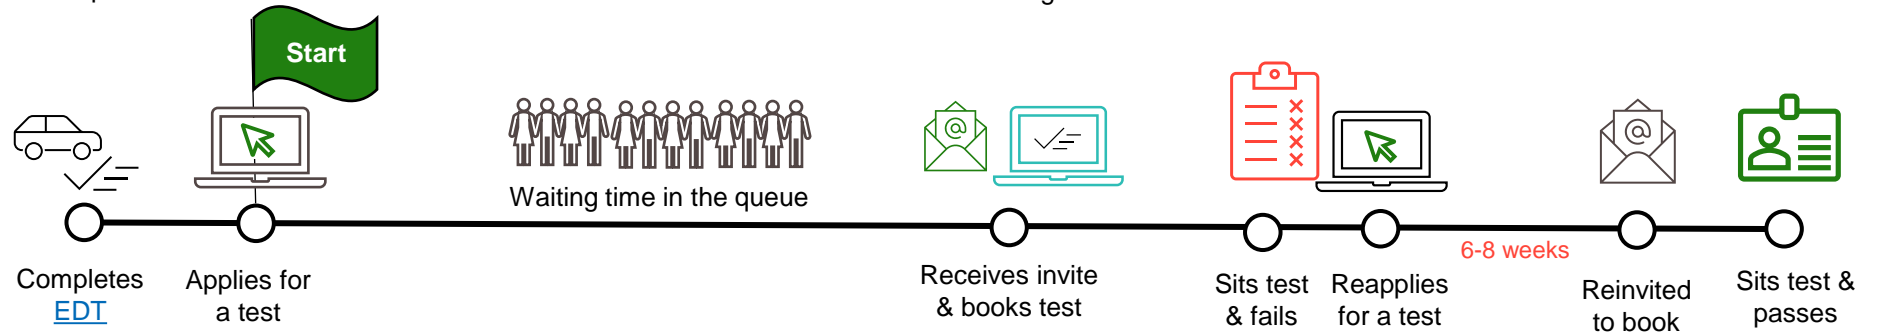

Lisa applied for her test as soon as she completed her EDT so she was added to the queue straight away. In this case, Lisa's position is determined by her application date.

Alex

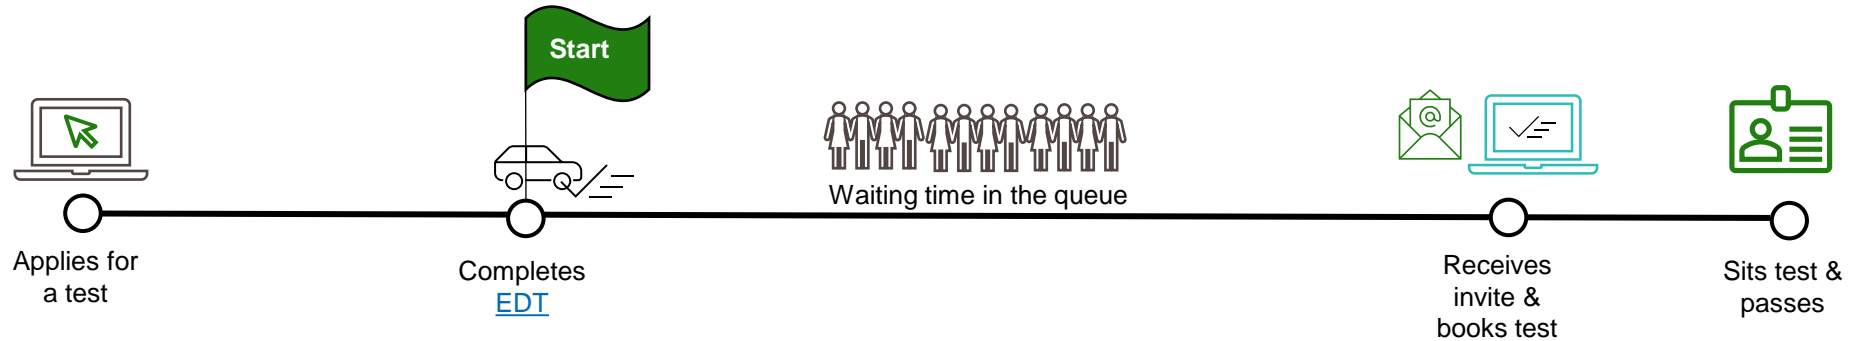

Alex had completed his EDT before he applied for a test, so his position in the queue is determined by his application date.

Hanna

Hanna hadn't completed her EDT when she applied, so she wasn't eligible to sit a test. She was added to the queue when she finished her last EDT session, so her position is determined by this date.

To be eligible to sit a test you must have:

- ✓ held your first learner permit for at least 6 months
- ✓ completed all of your EDT

